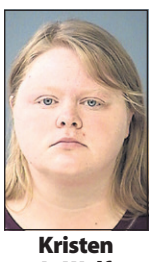
Wolf sentenced to 100 years at IDOC

Madison woman killed 2, wounded a third in Indy stabbings

BY MARK CAMPBELL

The Madison woman and former Indiana corrections officer who was charged with killing two people and critically injuring a third in a May 11, 2020 stabbing in Indianapolis has been sentenced to serve 100 years in the Indiana Department of Corrections.

Kristen L. Wolf, 30, previously pleaded guilty to two counts of murder, one count of attempted murder and attempted battery as part of a plea agreement in connection with the attacks at an Indianapolis apartment complex.



Kristen L. Wolf

She was sentenced in Marion Circuit Court on Friday to two 50-year sentences for murder, consecutive; and a 20-year sentence for attempted murder and a 2-year sentence for battery by means of a deadly weapon, both concurrent. She was granted credit for 974 days served.

According to court documents, the victims told police they were attacked by a strawberry-blond haired woman they did not know when they answered the door of their roommates' apartment at the Carriage House West complex in the 5600 block of Portsmouth Avenue on the west side of Indianapolis.

Police arriving at the scene found a gruesome crime scene with blood in the living room, kitchen, and on the walls of the first floor of the apartment. Victoria Cook, 24, was found dead from stab wounds and Dylan Dickover, 28, died at a hospital. A third stabbing victim, Cook's roommate, Elizabeth McHugh, was wounded to her neck, chest, hands and arms and rushed to Eskenazi Hospital where she was treated for her wounds and survived.

One of the people inside the apartment at the time of the attack told police that he came downstairs after hearing noise and found a woman he did not recognize stabbing people. He ran back upstairs and asked a female tenant if she had any kind of weapon he could use to defend them. By the time police arrived, the woman with the knife had already left the scene.

Police investigating the attack found a black knit cap at the scene that contained blood and other possible DNA evidence they believed belonged to the attacker. A patch on the cap was labeled Indiana Department of Correction with the handwritten name "Wolf."

Bethany Legacy awards first 2 grants

BY BOB DEMAREE

The first two grants have been awarded by the Bethany Legacy Foundation — formed last summer after the change of ownership one year ago of King's Daughters' Hospital from the Bethany Circle to Norton Healthcare.

Children's Advocacy Center of Southeastern Indiana, a child-friendly nonprofit created to minimize the trauma suffered by victims of child abuse, received $288,778 for rehabilitation and renovation of a structure at 601 West Street to serve as permanent facility to serve residents of Jefferson and Scott counties.

The Freedom Center, a non-profit faith-based counseling services organization, received $56,865 for construction work on the top floor of the Eggleston Community Building that will create therapist offices and restrooms.

"The two grants address some of the top critical issues in the county and align with priority areas from the research and listening tour data. In our long-term work, Bethany Legacy will have a broad and diverse portfolio, but these first two were time-sensitive and spoke right to the heart of what this foundation is all about," said Dora Anim, chief executive officer of Bethany Legacy Foundation (BLF).

JCBT OKs 33-month contract with VMI

Deal through 2025 at 4% increase per year

BY BOB DEMAREE

A contract that will provide operational funding for Visit Madison Inc. through Dec. 31, 2025 was approved by the Jefferson County Board of Tourism at its meeting on Monday.

The 33-month contract will put funding for VMI from the county's innkeeper tax collections back on a calendar year schedule. For the last two years, VMI has reached annual contracts with JCBT that each ended on March 31.

The current contract that began last year on April 1 expires March 31 with the new contract beginning April 1 of this year providing $243,750 towards VMI's operations over the last nine months of 2023. In order to get on a calendar year timeline, the first year of the 33-month contract ends Dec. 31, with a 4% increase in each of the next two years. In 2024, VMI will receive $338,000 with four quarterly payments of $84,500. In 2025, VMI will receive $351,520 with four quarterly payments of $87,880.

The original proposal from VMI was for a 10% increase annually, but the consensus of the JCBT board members was for the 4% increase. "We added the caveat that we could consider additional funding on a per request basis," said board member Jim Bartlett. "If we have a year that expenses are out of sight then we can consider additional requests."

All seven JCBT members were in attendance and voted unanimously to approve the contract.

CHARLIE'S BEAT

This Charlie's Beat column is number 216, and you could reasonably conclude that I'd be running out of fresh new topics about Madison's vibrant music scene. But I can assure you, there are still plenty of stories to be told. But as I've interviewed and talked to hundreds of music folks in and around our town, one name kept coming up, over and over. Donald Youngblood.

Donald "Duck" Youngblood was born in 1941 in Madison, and was taken from us much too soon in 2008. But in those 67 short years he made a lasting impression not only on the many fans who loved him, but on many of the up and coming musicians he helped and encouraged.

Traffic stop nets repeat drug arrests

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A Jefferson County Sheriffs Office traffic stop on Jan. 21 for a motorist who allegedly disregarded a stop sign resulted in marijuana charges against a man and a woman who were stopped and arrested on similar charges by Madison Police on Jan. 8.

Deputy Logan Gray stopped the vehicle for disregarding a stop sign at the intersection of County Road 366 North and 1550 West in Deputy, Indiana, on Jan. 21, 2023. Upon initial contact, Gray observed a strong odor of raw marijuana coming from the vehicle and both occupants were detained while the vehicle was search and 148 grams of raw marijuana was located and seized.

Madison Police Officer Curtis Shelpman had stopped the same driver and passenger on Jan. 8, and during his search 148 grams of marijuana and 113 grams of THC wax were located in the vehicle.

Michael Stewart Malone, 47, Madison and Kenyatta Lavon Harvey, 19, of Hanover were arrested and lodged in the Jefferson County Jail.

Malone, the driver, was charged with Possession of Marijuana Over 30 Grams, a Class A misdemeanor and Visiting a Common Nuisance, a Class B misdemeanor, as well as on a Jefferson County arrest warrant for Possession of Methamphetamine. He is being held on a $20,000 cash bond.

Harvey, the passenger, was charged with Possession of Marijuana Over 30 Grams-Prior Conviction and Maintaining a Common Nuisance, both Level 6 felonies, and held on a $500 cash bond.

"Criminal activity in rural areas of Jefferson County will not be ignored," said Sheriff Ben Flint. "We will be present and vigilant in all areas of Jefferson County."

Gray was assisted by Deputies Dan Stevens and Josh Taylor.

Funds for Madison, Hanover projects OK'd

BY BOB DEMAREE

Jefferson County Board of Tourism on Monday approved funding to develop the Madison Main Street Comfort Station into a satellite location for Visit Madison Inc. and provide for Wayfinding mapping signage in Madison. The board also earmarked funding in Hanover for the Hanover Horsepower Auto Show and a hotel study sought by Hanover Town Council.

The board approved a $40,800 request for the comfort station and $25,000 for the Wayfinding signage that will help visitors find notable locations throughout Madison.

With VMI's offices currently in the Visitor Center at 601 West First St., the comfort station will provide a presence on Main Street, which Executive Director Andrew Forrester said "is good for our visitors, it's good for the businesses on Main Street, it's good for city, it's good for Visit Madison. It's exciting."

Forrester said the comfort station will not necessarily be staffed full-time but seasonally and particularly during times when there is a heavy volume of people in the city during special events and weekends. "It is a great project. Visit Madison is ecstatic to have the opportunity to partner with the city. I see it as a win, win, win, win."

Tony Steinhardt III, director of economic development for Madison, said the funds will allow improvements to the comfort station that include "refreshing lighting, new ceiling tiles, new paint and new fixtures." He's hopeful the project will be done by June but work will be done around festival events, and "if we can't hit that, we'll try to have it done this year."

JCBT member Curtis Chatham said he is "extremely excited to see the Wayfinding" signage, noting that lack of adequate signage to guide visitors is a weakness in the community's visitor experience. "They don't even know where a parking lot is because we don't really have anything to direct them." With Wayfinder signage, visitors will be better able to find their way around the city.

PROJECTS FUNDED

Grants included $40,800 for Visit Madison Inc. to locate a satellite office at the Madison Comfort Station, $25,000 to develop Wayfinding signage of notable locations in Madison, $20,000 for the Hanover Horsepower car show and music concerts, and $8,500 for a hotel study for the Town of Hanover.

Hanover Horsepower, a two-day event involving a car show and music concerts, was allocated $20,000 which was less than the $52,000 organizers requested.

"My reaction to the proposal is that Hanover Horsepower has great potential. I don't think I want to go $52,000," JCBT member Jim Bartlett said while making a motion to approve $20,000. "That's frankly steeper than what we've gone with other projects of similar nature."

"My reaction to the proposal is that Hanover Horsepower has great potential. I don't think I want to go $52,000."

— Jim Bartlett, JCBT member

Bartlett noted that it is a relatively new event with little track record. The plan is for Hanover Horsepower is to be held annually on first weekend in August during time when there are no other festivals in Jefferson County.

"Unfortunately we don't have quality numbers for history," Bartlett said, noting the $20,000 should allow organizers to "get the event going, and then let's look at the reporting to see if it's bringing tourists, if it's bringing in people that are staying overnight, and people that are doing business with the local businesses."

A total of $8,500 was approved for the hotel study for the town of Hanover. "This is a no-brainer," said Chatham. "Anytime we've got an opportunity to do a hotel study."

Bartlett said he was told the last time a hotel study was done in Jefferson County was five to six years ago. "Certainly in Hanover, it's well worthwhile. This is pure tourism. This is what we're all about."

Meanwhile, a $350,000 request from the town of Hanover to build a new road to the Hanover Community Park was tabled. Commissioner David Bramer said he has discussed the project with Hanover town officials, and believes they will put together a proposal in the event that the Indiana General Assembly approves READI 2.0 funding, which could provide funding through Our Southern Indiana Regional Development Authority. He also noted that more planning for the project needs to happen before any approvals for funding.

Board member Ron Bateman emphasized that tourism should be the focus of all funding requests to JCBT, adding it " is the tourism board and we should not be funding things that the city and county are the primary beneficiary. It should have a heavy tourism component. I know that boundary is vague, but there are decisions to be made there, and I'm not going to be one who spends a lot of money on things city and county should be doing that don't have a tourism component.

"Jefferson County has the richest tourism potential in the state already," Bateman added. "And the problem is the volunteer organizations are not being supported at the grassroots level, and I'm not really interested in investing a lot of money on shiny objects that don't support the people who are actually doing the work" because they are the ones "that produce the product."

There will be a special JCBT meeting on Monday, Feb. 6, as the board works towards a quarterly cycle for considering project funding requests.

with me at Red Bicycle Hall and shared a file folder stuffed full of old photos, press clippings and memorabilia. "There were 10 of us kids," relates Carolyn, "we lived on Walnut Street back then. Six boys and four girls.

"We had an old upright piano in the house, and all the boys learned to play it by ear. We girls would sing along. When Don was just a young teenager, he had a band already, and we'd put on these dances at the Salvation Army and charge a little bit to get in. I'd run the concession stand selling Cokes and what have you.

"Don always had a band, as far back as I can remember. There was the Hoosier Beats, the Dominoes, the Aladdins. My future husband, Orville, played guitar in one of the bands, and my sister married the sax player, Jim Campbell. They played every weekend somewhere or other. The Moose, Knights of Columbus, Shipleys, The Drake, The Central.

"Don could do it all, sing, play guitar, piano, even yodel! He modeled himself after Jerry Lee Lewis, who was his musical idol. He'd jump up on the piano, play with his feet, all that wild stuff.

"But he was a great songwriter, too. He had two songs go to the Top Ten on the Country Charts. He even played the Grand Ol' Opry in Nashville. Some songs people might remember are Window Pane, DUI in Ol' KY, Two Wheeled Cadillac and Boys in Blue. He recorded 14 albums in his life.

"But I think his greatest legacy was the many people he helped over the years. He did so many benefit shows for so many different causes. And he had so many devoted fans who would come to watch him any time he'd play. Just walking through Walmart with Donald was a big chore, so many people would stop him and want to talk and shake his hand.

"And the many musicians he mentored and helped get started have such a lasting impact. Dennis O'Neal played drums with Donald for a while, as did Don Ely. When he still lived at home, there was always a group of people at our house playing and making a wonderful racket. A lot of local bands got their start jamming at our Walnut Street house in those early days."

It's safe to say, as Madison continues its journey to becoming widely known as Indiana's Music City, one of the founding fathers of this exciting musical movement is Donald "The Duckster" Youngblood. His legacy lives on in every bar, club and venue that carries on the tradition of great live music.

Thursdays at Rivertown will continue to be the DJ Dance Party. The Central this last Wednesday featured something they are calling "Jam with Jimmy" night, which is Central proprietor Jimmy Davis, of course. I'll let you know if this becomes a regular weekly thing. Looking ahead at Saturday night, you'll see the famous annual Obscure Neil Young Night is happening at Thomas Family Winery. This yearly tradition is one of the highlights of the winter music scene and should not be missed.

Charlie Rohlfing is a retired advertising man and partner in The Red Bicycle Hall music venue. Look for his distinctive fedora bobbing above the crowd, anywhere live local music is happening.

CAC recently acquired the property at 601 West Street that had once served as the home of Jefferson Circuit Judge Harry Nichols (1941-1959). The move to a permanent facility is necessary for the CAC to achieve accreditation, something that cannot be achieved at the site of the current local office at the Clearinghouse, 100 East Second St., due to its proximity to other social services offices.

"It's a proven fact that adverse childhood trauma has serious health and wellness impacts on these children when they become adults," said CAC Executive Director Kelli Jetti. "The impact of BLF's contribution is monumental, and in fact life-changing for so many people. The CAC will not only provide a safe space for children and families during times of trauma but will also allow our community a place to access valuable resources that will benefit the health and wellness of our children, families, and community."

CAC applied in late December for a $500,000 grant for an Office of Community and Rural Affairs (OCRA) Community Development Block Grant from the Public Facilities program. Patty Jackson, deputy director of Southern Indiana Regional Planning Commission (SIRPC) which is coordinating the grant application process and administration for CAC, said Tuesday said it is expected that an announcement on the OCRA grant will be made by the end of February.

If that grant is awarded, Jackson speculated that rehabilitation work will begin in the fall. The work will include making the building compliant with the American Disabilities Act (ADA) including installation of an elevator. Additionally, heating ventilation and air conditioning (HVAC) work is needed along with other structural improvements.

The Freedom Center will be renovating two of the six classrooms on the top floor of the former Eggleston Elementary School building. One classroom will be divided into two restrooms and storage and another classroom will be divided into three offices for therapists with a small waiting room that will have a self-serve coffee area.

"The grant funds we've received from the Bethany Legacy Foundation have allowed The Freedom Center to begin and complete necessary renovations to our facility that bring us one step closer to our goal of opening our doors full time in 2023 and offering 50 plus therapy sessions a week for any and all who need it," said Liz Cooper, executive director of The Freedom Center. "No one will be turned away from therapy services based on their ability to pay."

Cooper said the restrooms are needed because The Freedom Center is renting the "entire floor and there are no bathrooms on our floor, so we're putting in bathrooms so our whole facility can be in one area."

The goal is to be open for counseling services by June. Although The Freedom Center is a Christian faith-based organization, Cooper said it will honor an individual or client's desire not to have a faith-based approach in the therapy process, noting that question will be offered before the counseling takes place. "If they're open to it and willing, it can be (faith-based), but if they prefer it not be, we will honor that 100%." All therapists will be fully licensed.

Creating The Freedom Center is a dream that Cooper has had since November 2019 that began to become a reality in the last year. "I saw how much of a financial burden that therapy can be on people, and how powerful therapy can be as an avenue for healing … I just had a passion that healing should not just be for those who can afford it."

The Freedom Center has a worship and prayer room in space that had been the auditorium and library for the elementary school. The worship area, which is already being utilized for worship activities, is not part of the construction. Cooper said the counseling and worship "are separate services but equally important with our mission and vision."

The Freedom Center joins several other community organizations in the Eggleston building that has been owned by Madison's First Baptist Church since 2013. Among the organizations in the building are La Casa Amiga, which provides Spanish speaking services; numerous 12-step groups including Narcotics Anonymous and Alcoholics Anonymous; and Treasuring Small Spirits that helps families dealing with grief following the loss of a baby. Also, opening next month will be the Recovery Cafe that will be committed to serving people suffering from homelessness, addiction and other mental health challenges.

Bethany Legacy Foundation is a new non-profit private foundation founded in 2022 that is focused on designing solutions that remove economic and social obstacles to create the healthiest community. Bethany Legacy Foundation started with an in-depth listening tour and community research that has informed the strategic plan.

"As the foundation moves to the action phase in 2023, it is important for us to deliver on our promise to move swiftly and be a true partner in Jefferson County," said Anim. "For Bethany Legacy Foundation the action phase kicks off in 2023 and involves rolling up our sleeves and working alongside the community to drive results. Bethany Legacy believes that with smart grant-making, research, education, and people power, Jefferson County will become a place where future generations can work, live, and thrive."

Bethany Legacy F oundation is planning a reveal of its brand at the "Legacy in Action" event from 4:30-6:30 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 23, at the Historic Eagle Cotton Mill Fairfield Inn and Suits by Marriott.

WOLF

An internal affairs investigator with the IDOC matched the description of the suspect with the last name "Wolf" and found Kristen Wolf, according to the affidavit. Police then tracked down Wolf in Madison where she worked at the Madison Correctional Unit.

Police picked up Wolf on May 22, 2020, but she denied being in Indianapolis on May 11. A warrant was served to search Wolf's Madison residence on May 22, 2020, and police found several "combat style knives" and uniforms with patches identical to the patch on the hat found at the crime scene.

Court documents also revealed that police found an alleged manifesto written by Wolf in which she stated that she got inspiration from serial killers but didn't want to kill someone she knew. The manifesto also contained a hand-written will and information indicating that Wolf was not planning to die but was prepared for it. The papers were dated May 11, 2020, the same day of the murders.

Although the victims at the apartment insisted that they did not know Wolf, police believe they both had connections to a man who reportedly trains women how to use knives to kill people. The preliminary investigation showed that one of the victims previously dated a man who Wolf was dating, according to one of Wolf's neighbors.

A 2009 graduate of Southwestern High School, Wolf had worked at Madison Correctional Facility from February 2014 until May 22, 2020, when she was "terminated based on allegations of criminal actions" being investigated by IMPD.

Under terms of her guilty plea agreement, Wolf agreed to serve 100 years in the Indiana Department of Correction, fully executed. However, by pleading guilty, she avoided the death penalty but surrendered her right to an appeal.

An attorney for Wolf said her client was remorseful for her actions and not the monster others had portrayed her to be. In a prepared statement, Wolf said she "didn't know why she did it" but knew her apologies to the victims' families would "never be enough."

CONTRACT

VMI Executive Director Andrew Forrester thanked the board for approving the longer contract, which is said will provide continuity and allow VMI to better plan and budget its operations going forward.

"Thank you for your confidence. Thank you for your continued partnership. I'm looking forward to what we will continue to accomplish," Forrester said. VMI's marketing budget was not included as part of the contract and will be considered by JCBT at a future meeting. Last year's marketing budget was $133,800.

With JCBT meeting for its first session of 2023, the board also conducted its annual reorganization by electing officers. Trevor Crafton was elected president, replacing Commissioner David Bramer who had served in that role for the last two years. Victoria Perry, who is serving her second year on the board, was elected vice president. Bramer was elected treasurer, replacing Curtis Chatham who was nominated to again serve in that role but declined the nomination. Wendy Lawson was once again elected secretary for a third consecutive year.

BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

No looking back

Carroll runs win streak to four with 71-54 win over Cornerstone

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Carroll County scored the first 20 points of the game and never looked back in a 71-54 win over Cornerstone Christian at home on Monday in boys basketball.

The Panthers, who have now won four in a row after a 1-14 start to the season, were red-hot from the floor, hitting four 3-pointers in the first quarter and jumping out to a 20-0 lead just over five minutes into the period. Aden Stephenson hit two triples and Austin Hicks scored seven points as Carroll led 24-6 after the first.

Carroll cooled considerably after that and Cornerstone actually outscored the Panthers 54-51 over the final 27 minutes of the game, but the damage was done.

Carroll, now 5-14 on the season, has the rest of the week off before hosting 31st District front-runner Owen County on Monday, Jan. 30.

Madison, now 9-10 on the season, wraps up the regular season at Class A No. 5 Trinity Lutheran on Thursday.

LADY RAIDERS FALL TO WALTON

Trimble County suffered its fifth loss in the past six games with a 52-33 setback at home to Walton-Verona in girls basketball on Monday.

Trimble, now 8-13 overall and 2-2 in the North Central Kentucky Conference, travels to Beechwood on Saturday.

PACERS SWEPT BY RISING SUN

Switzerland County's girls lost to Rising Sun for the second time this season, 50-43 Tuesday on the road.

Disrespected no more, Bengals preparing to face Chiefs again for trip to Super Bowl

BY MITCH STACY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Bengals went into Buffalo feeling disrespected and played their most complete game of the season.

With tickets on sale last week for a potential neutral-site Buffalo-Kansas City AFC championship game, the Bengals came into a snowstorm and dominated the second-seeded Bills.

Cincinnati's 27-10 win — its 10th in a row — sets up a rematch with Patrick Mahomes and the top-seeded Chiefs in the AFC championship game Sunday (TV: Live on CBS at 6:30 p.m.).

The Bengals are peaking in the playoffs again, and nobody is more confident than quarterback Joe Burrow, who said this team is better this last year's. That squad won 27-24 in overtime at Kansas City to advance to the Super Bowl, where it lost 23-20 to the Los Angeles Rams.

"We're a more complete team and a better team," Burrow said. "We just seem to make plays when it counts."

With three backups playing on the offensive line against Buffalo, it was hard to predict how efficiently the Bengals' offense could operate.

It couldn't have gone much better.

Burrow completed 23 of 36 passes for 242 yards and two touchdowns. He had zero turnovers and was sacked just once. He completed passes to eight different receivers.

"Unbelievable," running back Joe Mixon said. "To come through in the snow and deliver dots the way he was doing it, that's crazy. I'm going to be honest, that's crazy. I've never seen anything like it, to be real."

Mixon had a big game, too — a welcome development considering the Bengals' running game had stalled in recent weeks. He rushed for 105 yards, averaging 5.3 per carry, and a touchdown. It was Mixon's first 100-yard game since Nov. 6 and only his second this season.

WHAT'S WORKING

Just about everything on Sunday. Cincinnati was balanced on offense, picking up 30 first downs, converting 6 of 10 third downs and finishing with 412 total yards — including 172 on the ground, its most since Nov. 6.

The defense limited Buffalo to 63 rushing yards and kept constant pressure on quarterback Josh Allen, who was hit eight times and sacked once. The Bills' top receiver, Stefon Diggs, finished with four catches for 35 yards.

WHAT NEEDS HELP

As far as the Bengals are concerned, the NFL's decision-making process could use some work. The league began selling tickets for a possible game in Atlanta that was dependent on the Bills and Chiefs winning last weekend. The NFL had decided on the first-of-its-kind, neutral-site conference championship because the Bills (13-3) finished the season a half-game behind the Chiefs (14-3) after their game at Cincinnati was canceled on Jan. 2 when Bills safety Damar Hamlin went into cardiac arrest and had to be resuscitated on the field. The Bengals felt disrespected by that plan and were determined to ruin it.

"They keep talking us down, and we'll keep showing up," receiver Ja'Marr Chase said.

STOCK UP

Jackson Carman had not played tackle for the Bengals since he was drafted in 2021. Carman was pushed into service at left tackle after Jonah Williams dislocated a kneecap in the wild card-round playoff win over Baltimore. Backups Hakeem Adeniji and Max Scharping were already starting on the right side because of injuries. The O-line has hardly looked better than it did Sunday, when it dominated Buffalo's defensive front on a snowy field.

The Bengals are peaking in the playoffs again, and nobody is more confident than quarterback Joe Burrow, who said this team is better this last year's. That squad won 27-24 in overtime at Kansas City to advance to the Super Bowl, where it lost 23-20 to the Los Angeles Rams.

STOCK DOWN

WR Tyler Boyd had just one catch for 23 yards.

INJURIES

C Ted Karras suffered a knee injury during Sunday's game but played through it. He said he'll be OK for the AFC championship game. ... Williams and G Alex Cappa (ankle) were considered week to week.

KEY NUMBER

5 — Number of career postseason wins for Burrow, the most for any Bengals quarterback.

NEXT STEPS

Beat Mahomes and the Chiefs on Sunday for the fourth time in the span of about 13 months to earn a second consecutive trip to the Super Bowl. Mahomes suffered a high ankle sprain on Sunday that could limit his mobility.

"I hope that (Mahomes) is healthy," Cincinnati safety Jessie Bates III said. "I hope that he is 100% healthy so there is no excuses. We'll be ready."

Colts still want to interview DeMeco Ryans

BY ROB MAADDI
AP PRO FOOTBALL WRITER

The Indianapolis Colts still want to interview 49ers defensive coordinator DeMeco Ryans for their head coach vacancy, and are planning to give Jeff Saturday a second interview along with six or seven other candidates, a person familiar with the team's plans told The Associated Press.

The person spoke on condition of anonymity Tuesday because the team is still narrowing its list of coaches for second interviews to seven or eight.

Ryans had an interview planned with the Colts last week, but had to postpone to focus on preparation for San Francisco's divisional playoff game against the Dallas Cowboys. Ryans interviewed with the Texans and Broncos, but also had to postpone with the Cardinals. The Panthers also are interested in Ryans.

The 49ers beat Dallas and will face the Philadelphia Eagles in the NFC championship game on Sunday.

Ryans can have second interviews with Houston and Denver next week whether the Niners win or lose, per NFL rules. The window for first interviews with teams has closed for now so he'll have to wait until San Francisco's season is over to speak with the Colts, Cardinals and Panthers.

The Colts already have interviewed special teams coordinator Bubba Ventrone, Lions offensive coordinator Ben Johnson and defensive coordinator Aaron Glenn, Broncos DC Ejiro Evero, Eagles OC Shane Steichen, Giants OC Mike Kafka, Rams DC Raheem Morris, Bengals OC Brian Callahan, Giants DC Wink Martindale, Cowboys DC Dan Quinn, Packers special teams coordinator Rich Bisaccia and Chiefs OC Eric Bieniemy.

The Colts fired coach Frank Reich in early November after a third straight loss and replaced him with Saturday on an interim basis. After winning his first game at Las Vegas, Saturday and the Colts lost their last seven to finish 4-12-1.

Saturday, a former two-time All-Pro center who snapped the ball to Hall of Fame quarterback Peyton Manning for 12 seasons with the Colts, was working as an ESPN analyst when the Colts brought him in to replace Reich.

Red Sox reach $7M deal with Duvall

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOSTON — Adam Duvall and the Boston Red Sox finalized a $7 million, one-year contract Tuesday.

The veteran outfielder, a native of Louisville who played in college at Western Kentucky and Louisville, can earn another $3 million in performance bonuses based on plate appearances.

The sides agreed to terms last week, pending a physical.

To make room for Duvall on the 40-man roster, Boston cut former closer Matt Barnes — an All-Star in 2021 and a key member of the Red Sox bullpen for much of his nine-year career.

In a surprise move, the 32-year-old Barnes was designated for assignment, meaning the team has seven days to trade, release or send him outright to the minors. The right-handed reliever has more than $10.6 million remaining on his contract.

In a surprise move, the 32-year-old Barnes was designated for assignment, meaning the team has seven days to trade, release or send him outright to the minors. The right-handed reliever has more than $10.6 million remaining on his contract.

Duvall, 34, enters his 10th major league season, having played for the Giants, Reds, Marlins and two stints with Atlanta.

He was an All-Star for Cincinnati in 2016 and won a Gold Glove for the Braves in 2021, batting .228 with 38 homers and an NL-leading 113 RBIs to help lead them to a World Series championship.

Duvall, a right-handed hitter, batted .213 with 12 home runs and 36 RBIs in 86 games for Atlanta last season.

He made 43 starts in center field, 26 in left and 11 in right.

Turner, Mathurin lead Pacers past Bulls

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Bennedict Mathurin looked at the Indiana Pacers' 21-point first-half deficit and saw an opportunity.

He kept urging his teammates to play hard, to follow the game plan and insisted they eventually could come back. Again. Then the 20-year-old rookie made sure of it.

Mathurin and Myles Turner each scored 26 points and Mathurin broke free for the decisive basket with 29.1 seconds left to give the Pacers a 116-110 victory over the Chicago Bulls on Tuesday night.

"He was the most animated I've seen him in the huddles all season," coach Rick Carlisle said. "He was being encouraging, saying 'We can do this, we can do this.' He just brings an indomitable will to compete, to get the ball in the basket and to outwork you."

Indiana snapped a season-worst seven-game losing streak by rallying from a double-digit deficit to win for the 11th time this season — two of those after trailing by 20 points or more — and barely stayed ahead of 10th-place Chicago in the Eastern Conference. The Pacers played again without injured point guard Tyrese Haliburton and this time without his replacement, Andrew Nembhard, who was sick.

T.J. McConnell had 20 points and 10 assists for the Pacers. But without Turner's big third quarter and Mathurin playing the role of closer, Indiana wouldn't have completed the rally.

"A lot of rookies are hitting a wall and losing steam at this point," Carlisle said. "He's actually gaining momentum and that's the most impressive thing about him."

Mathurin certainly caused headaches for the Bulls, who had a three-game winning streak end. DeMar DeRozan scored 33 points to lead Chicago and Nikola Vucevic added 20 points, eight rebounds and five assists as his streak of 11 consecutive double-doubles also ended.

While the game was physical and sometimes ugly, the Bulls seized control by quickly building a 20-5 lead and extending the margin to 62-41 late in the first half.

But on the second night of a back-to-back, the Bulls wore down in the second half as the Pacers became the aggressors.

"We talk about this at halftime and what we're getting ready to see happen and what we have to do," Chicago coach Billy Donovan said before he started gesturing with his hands. "Their intensity was here and ours was maybe the same as in the first half, but theirs was better."

With McConnell, Turner and Mathurin leading the charge, the Pacers finally responded.

They cut the deficit to 87-80 after three quarters and continued rallying in the fourth, finally taking their first lead of the game, 102-100, on McConnell's reverse layup with 4:27 to go.

The teams traded leads four times after that and were tied three times — until Mathurin's layup gave Indiana a 112-110 lead. The Pacers forced turnovers on each of the Bulls' next two possessions and made four straight free throws to seal it.

TIP-INS

Bulls: Zach LaVine had 14 points and Derrick Jones Jr. had 10. ... DeRozan finished with five rebounds and three assists. ... The Bulls had won the previous four games in the series.

Pacers: Buddy Hield had 19 points, five rebounds, four assists, four steals and four 3-pointers. ... Turner had eight rebounds while McConnell had three steals. ... Indiana was 10 of 37 on 3s. ... Haliburton could return as early as Friday from the sprained left knee and sprained left elbow that contributed to the Pacers' skid that kept him out of the Indiana's previous six games.

Eldest sibling worries about eldercare

Dear Amy: I have three siblings. I am the oldest —10 years older than my next sibling.

My wife and I are now in our mid-70s. We are retired and live on Social Security, her modest teacher's pension, and a six-figure nest egg.

Two of my siblings have large incomes and considerable real-estate holdings. Another brother and his wife have professional jobs.

All the grandchildren in the family are now adults and on their own.

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

The controversy involves my 100-year-old mother, who lives in the East near my siblings in an expensive care facility. We live in another part of the country.

My siblings insist that we share the cost in equal measure.

We have offered to care for my mother in our home at no cost to them, but they have rejected the offer.

I believe that contributions should be based on individual circumstances and ability to pay. The disagreement has caused a rift among us. Is there a solution here?

—Stuck in Stalemate

Dear Stuck: Moving your 100-year-old mother to another part of the country to live in your home does not seem like a viable option for anyone, especially her. If she is happy and doing well where she is, then she should stay there.

I agree with you that siblings should contribute to an elder's care according to their circumstances and ability to pay. When your siblings chose to move your mother into this expensive home, you should have made it clear at the outset that this was unaffordable for you.

Son declines invitation with a lie

Dear Amy: My adult son made an excuse to not attend an extended family holiday gathering, but I have reason to believe he may have lied to me.

He and his wife have not attended this annual party for several years, because some years they lived out of state, which I understand.

However, they are currently living within driving distance.

The party is planned about a month in advance, and is held on a weekend a few weeks before Christmas.

When he doesn't want to answer a question I've asked, he simply does not respond to my text.

He later told me that he went to a neighboring city the day of the family party.

It hurts me that he does not seem to want to see the group, as well as the possibility that he lied to me.

Is this a generational issue, with individuals doing what they want, no matter how much close family would love to see them once a year?

I don't want to create a rift, but I would like to know why they didn't want to attend.

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

No one is perfect, and I make mistakes, too. I just wish he would be honest and upfront. Is it worth asking him about it directly? — Kentucky Mom

Dear Mom: Your son made an excuse to avoid going to this family party. You later felt compelled to investigate his excuse, which seems to have transformed his excuse into a lie. You should do some honest searching to understand why he doesn't feel able to tell you the truth. Perhaps he is trying to spare your feelings. Is his cowardice inspired by the way you typically react when told an unpleasant truth?

Yes — people do what they want to do. And they should! You want to attend this family party every year, and he doesn't.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Your efforts to be charming might backfire. Be prepared to offer an apology or make amends if you crashed someone's boundary. You may run into trouble if you forget a promise or refuse to consider a compromise.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Note your ideas because they may become valuable in your work. Focus on your job and developing sound business strategies. Your social life might be especially quiet now, giving you more time to concentrate on your career.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — It may be difficult to get relevant intel without seeming nosy. Too many personal questions might cause someone to suspect your motives, but in a few days, your desire for answers should seem more acceptable.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Enjoy life as though it was a bowl full of cherries but watch out for the pits. Do not lose your temper over minor issues or misunderstandings with loved ones. Be practical and down to earth about financial issues.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Develop useful business contacts and connections. Like a potter at the wheel, you can work to mold circumstances to your liking and create something worthy of your efforts. Avoid becoming entangled in emotional issues.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Build people and situations up rather than tearing them down. Gain the respect of business associates and loved ones by keeping your promises. Keep a careful eye on finances, where you can use astute observations to make a profit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Use your head as well as your heart and you might win the daily double of happiness. You may worry that being generous will leave you with a bit less than you need, but any shortfall should be quickly made up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Don't be afraid of going after what you want. A partner or companion may be well informed of the latest trends and set a fast pace, but you can keep up. Time flies when you spend it with friendly and interesting people.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — You can go far if you build your trust in yourself, but one downside is that confidence can trigger people with a poor self-image. Think carefully about sound business practices before you spend your money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — You might not be able to believe everything you hear. Someone may disagree with you or mislead you and cause a misunderstanding. Rely on best practices to guide your hand when money is on the table.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Time-tested tactics and solutions are the best ones to ensure that a project or negotiation becomes a win-win situation for everyone involved. Loyal partners may share their insights on achieving material success.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Life is like an artichoke, peel off the pointy layers to get to the heart. Learn a big lesson from a challenging experience. Your sympathetic concern could be taken the wrong way if someone is determined to misunderstand.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Travel fast when the road is clear and slow down when there are potholes. Think about ways to compete successfully without stepping on anyone's toes. You can show off your leadership skills and set a good example.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Let smart thinking be your guide. Explore trendy new ideas, concentrate on researching facts and act independently to enjoy the best success. Do not risk becoming romantically involved with a business acquaintance.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Enjoy having a competitive edge. You may be feeling sharp and clear-minded, so it should be easy to get work done quickly. Be enthusiastic and energetic about handling the small details and the big issues will become more manageable.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Outline the value of your ideas; someone may be skeptical if you expect recognition and rewards without showing your actual plans. Embrace your human imperfections; don't let them cause anxiety in social settings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Trust is something you cannot buy, and once damaged, can be almost impossible to restore. Make sure not to disturb the trust in important business and/or personal relationships. New undertakings may be guided by a trusted partner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Someone might shake up your beliefs with new insights. Concepts that once seemed confusing may become suddenly clear at last. Study up to be sure you fully understand important business and technical jargon.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Stay in the friend zone to stay happy. A romantic attachment formed now might not live up to expectations or bring satisfaction. Someone may misunderstand your intentions if there is a social aspect to a business transaction.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — The rules of engagement are subject to change. A partner or loved one may need some extra space for several hours today. You can fulfill your promises easily, even if you have to push yourself to get started.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — The big picture develops slowly, but your financial concerns can still take a turn for the better. This might be a good time to discuss monetary matters or to develop a viable game plan with an energetic partner.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — You might not be in the mood for too much togetherness today. Misunderstandings with loved ones can be put behind you when you change the subject to something happy. Use free time to pursue a special interest or hobby.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Toe the line while working; don't succumb to a temptation to handle personal business or check social media while you are on the clock. This is a good time to set a good example for others by being diligent.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Be above reproach; but also be approachable. You might receive more than the usual number of compliments now. Give your spirits a boost by treating yourself to something fun, or something that adds to your confidence.

Tshiebwe posts double-double as Kentucky beats Vandy

BY TERESA M. WALKER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Oscar Tshiebwe scored 15 points and grabbed 13 rebounds as Kentucky beat Vanderbilt 69-53 Tuesday night for the Wildcats' longest winning streak this season at four straight.

Kentucky (14-6, 5-3 Southeastern Conference) also won its 14th consecutive game in this series with coach John Calipari improving to 25-4 against the Commodores.

Antonio Reeves added 16 points for Kentucky. Jacob Toppin finished with 12 points and 10 rebounds and CJ Frederick and Cason Wallace each had 10.

Vanderbilt (10-10, 3-4) kept it tight much of the first half with five ties and six lead changes. The Commodores took their last lead at 20-19 on freshman Malik Dia's 3-pointer. Then Tschiebwe dunked, starting a 15-7 run for the Wildcats to finish the half with a 36-27 lead.

The Wildcats picked up where they left off, opening the second half with a 12-3 spurt with Toppin's layup with 15:46 putting them up 48-30. Vanderbilt struggled to knock down shots, missing six of their first seven.

Dia led Vanderbilt with a career-best 14 points, and Tyrin Lawrence added 12.

BIG PICTURE

Kentucky made effective use of its size advantage by dominating on the boards (37-24) and outscoring the Commodores 36-22 in the paint. Vanderbilt couldn't match up inside with both 7-footer Liam Robbins out at least three more weeks with an injured ankle while 6-10 Lee Dort has a stress fracture in his foot that will be re-evaluated in four weeks. It didn't help that fifth-year forward Quentin Millora-Brown was held scoreless for the third time this season.

Rolen elected to Baseball Hall of Fame

BY RONALD BLUM
AP BASEBALL WRITER

NEW YORK — Scott Rolen sat with his son in the parking lot outside Indiana's Bloomington South High School in 2018, waiting to coach grade schoolers in basketball and listening on the radio for results of his first appearance on baseball's Hall of Fame ballot.

Scott Rolen

" 'Dad, I think you're getting in,' " Rolen recalled 10-year-old Finn predicting.

Rolen received 10.2% of the vote, double the 5% minimum to remain on the ballot the following year but far short of the 75% needed for election.

" 'Did we win?' " dad remembered his son asking. "I said, 'Oh, we won. Yes, we won.' "

Rolen came a long way in a few short years and was elected to the Hall on his sixth try Tuesday, the slick-fielding third baseman achieving baseball's highest honor with five votes to spare.

A seven-time All-Star and eight-time Gold Glove winner, Rolen was picked on 297 of 389 ballots cast by the Baseball Writers' Association of America for 76.3%. That made his modest 10.2% debut the lowest first-ballot percentage of a player later elected; the previous mark had been 17% in 1970 by Duke Snider, who was voted in with 86.5% in 1980.

"There was actually never a point in my life that I thought I was going to be a Hall of Fame baseball player," Rolen said. "Never did I think I was going to get drafted. Never did I think I was going to play in the major leagues. Never going to be whatever."

Rolen will join Fred McGriff, elected last month by the contemporary baseball era committee, as the Class of 2023 inducted July 23 in Cooperstown.

First baseman Todd Helton was second with 281 votes (72.2%) and reliever Billy Wagner third with 265 (68.1%). Helton moved up from 52% and can have five more appearances on the ballot, while Wagner rose from 51% and has two additional chances.

Rolen batted .281 with 316 homers and 1,287 RBIs for Philadelphia (1996-2002), St. Louis (2002-07), Toronto (2008-09) and Cincinnati (2009-12). He was a unanimous pick as the 1997 NL Rookie of the Year and hit .421 as the Cardinals won the 2006 World Series.

His Hall vote rose steadily to 17.2% in 2019, 35.3% in 2020, 52.9% in 2021 and 63.2% last year. He didn't need to follow Ryan Thibodaux's Hall of Fame Ballot Tracker this year.

"My phone would blow up about every day from my son and my buddies and everybody telling me where it was," Rolen said.

He waited Tuesday at home in Bloomington — he was runner-up for Indiana's Mr. Basketball in 1993 — with his parents, wife, son, daughter, brother and his brother's family.

"When the phone call came and I saw baseball Hall of Fame on my phone," Rolen said, "you kind of look around, like, that actually did just happen."

They all cried, and a few minutes later Finn asked him to go out and toss a baseball.

"It's 30 degrees here. It's going to snow about 12 inches tomorrow, and my son and I were in the driveway playing catch," Rolen said.

Then they walked a short distance to his brother's house to celebrate.

"I promised everybody great steaks no matter what, and I had to turn the tongs over," Rolen said. "I was normally going to grill for everybody but now my brother-in-law's grilling."

Rolen played shortstop, second base, third, right field, center, left and pitcher at Jasper High School before settling at third in his sophomore or junior year. He will be the 18th third baseman in the Hall, the fewest of any position.

"Most of the guys who moved to third probably came up as shortstops," said Chipper Jones, the previous third baseman elected, in 2018. "You kind of outgrow the shortstop position as you get older and develop more."

Rolen's five-vote margin tied for the 12th-smallest among players elected by the writers and his vote percentage was the 10th lowest.

Purdue back at No. 1 in AP Top 25, Alabama right behind

BY JOHN MARSHALL
AP BASKETBALL WRITER

Purdue is back at No. 1 in the AP Top 25 and Alabama is right behind the Boilermakers.

Purdue returned to the top spot in The Associated Press men's college basketball poll on Monday, moving up two spots after Temple knocked off No. 1 Houston over the weekend. The Boilermakers received 39 first-place votes from a 62-person media panel after a volatile week where just two teams kept the same spot from a week ago.

Alabama climbed two spots to No. 2, picking up 23 first-place votes for its highest ranking since reaching No. 1 in 2002-03. Houston, Tennessee and Kansas State round out the top five.

Purdue (19-1, 8-1 Big Ten) had dropped to No. 3 after four weeks at No. 1 following a loss to Rutgers on Jan. 3, but has since won six straight.

Alabama (17-2, 7-0 SEC) has made a steady climb since being ranked No. 20 in the preseason AP Top 25, moving into the top 10 in early December. The Crimson Tide had lopsided wins over Missouri and Vanderbilt after Darius Miles was dismissed from the team as he faces a murder charge in a fatal shooting near campus.

Alabama coach Nate Oats reached out to Ray Lewis before the Crimson Tide played Vanderbilt last week, sharing a Bible verse suggested by the Hall of Fame linebacker. Alabama ended up beating Vandy by 12 and rolled over Missouri by 21.

"I did see some guys break down postgame," Oats said. "I think they've been bottling some stuff up. We've got a job to do. We've got to get to the game. We got to the game and took care of business, and then it's almost like a big relief. The game's over, and we can let out a sigh of relief."

COUGARS FALL

Houston moved atop the AP Top 25 for the first time since the Phi Slama Jama of the 1980s earlier this season before a loss to Alabama dropped it back to No. 5.

The Cougars returned to No. 1 on Jan. 9, but their run ended after two weeks with Sunday's 56-55 loss to Temple. The win was the Owls' first over a No. 1 team since 2000.

BEATING KU

Kansas State moved up eight spots to No. 5 after outlasting rival Kansas 83-82 at Bramlage Coliseum last week. It's the Wildcats' highest ranking since reaching No. 3 in 2010-11.

TCU gave Kansas consecutive losses in the state for the first time since 1989 with a 23-point beatdown at Allen Fieldhouse on Saturday. It was one of Bill Self's worst losses in 20 years as Kansas' coach and ended the Jayhawks' 16-game home winning streak.

The No. 14 Horned Frogs moved up three spots in this week's poll after the win. Kansas, the defending national champion, dropped seven spots to No. 9.

BIG TEN BUMMER

While Purdue has remained near the top of the poll most of the season, the rest of the Big Ten has fallen off. With Rutgers dropping out, the Big Ten has just one AP Top 25 team for the first time since the Feb. 16, 2004, when No. 12 Wisconsin was the conference's lone ranked team, according to Sportradar.

RISING/FALLING

Kansas State had the week's biggest jump, followed by No. 4 Tennessee and No. 6 Arizona each climbing five spots. No. 21 Baylor moved up four spots with wins over Texas Tech and Oklahoma.

Gonzaga had the biggest fall, losing eight places to No. 14 after Loyola Marymount ended the Zags' 75-game home winning streak on Thursday. No. 13 Xavier dropped five spots after a one-point road loss to DePaul.

IN AND OUT

No. 22 Saint Mary's is ranked for the first time this season after rolling over Pepperdine and Santa Clara last week. No. 25 New Mexico is back in the poll after beating San Jose State and outlasting Boise State in overtime.

A three-point loss to Michigan State knocked Rutgers out of the poll from No. 23. Arkansas dropped out from No. 25 following a loss to Missouri.

Chiefs' Reid: Mahomes 'going to play' vs. Cincy for AFC title

BY DAVE SKRETTA
ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Chiefs coach Andy Reid said Monday that Patrick Mahomes will play in the AFC title game against the Bengals, and that the high ankle sprain the All-Pro quarterback sustained against the Jaguars last weekend is less severe than the one he played through during the 2019 season opener.

"He's going to play," Reid told a group of local reporters. "That's his mindset."

Mahomes was hurt in the first quarter of Saturday's win over Jacksonville when pass rusher Arden Key landed heavily on his right ankle. Mahomes finished the drive but was hobbling badly, and Reid and the training staff forced him to get an X-ray — it came back negative — and do some agility testing at halftime before allowing him back in the game.

In the meantime, backup Chad Henne led the Chiefs on a 12-play, 98-yard touchdown drive in the 27-20 victory.

Mahomes played well in the second half, but the Chiefs dramatically altered their offense to account for his reduced mobility.

Mahomes rarely went under center and threw almost exclusively from the pocket, rather than scrambling to buy time and make the many off-schedule throws that have made him so dynamic over the years.

He still threw for 195 yards and two touchdowns, including the eventual clincher with about 7 minutes to play.

Mahomes said afterward that his ankle felt better than expected and he vowed to play in the AFC title game (TV: Live on CBS at 6:30 p.m. Sunday) — the fifth consecutive one hosted by Kansas City and a rematch of last year's game won by Cincinnati in overtime.

"Pain is pain," Mahomes said. "You're going to have to deal with it."

Reid said it was too early to tell how much Mahomes will practice this week. The Chiefs typically spend Monday reviewing film and getting treatment, then the players get Tuesday off, before their first full practice on Wednesday.

"When we get to that Wednesday practice we'll see where we're at," Reid said. "I've got to see how he feels."

Asked whether Mahomes could play without practice, Reid replied: "Who the heck knows?"

"He's done some amazing things with limited time," Reid added. "I think so. He's never had to do it."

Mahomes sustained a similar ankle injury in the 2019 opener against Jacksonville, and Reid said "I think this one isn't quite as bad as that one."

In that case, Mahomes played the following week in Oakland, going 30 of 44 for 443 yards and four TD passes without an interception in a 28-10 win over the Raiders.

Regardless of whether Mahomes practices, Henne is likely to get more repetitions than usual. And while the quarterbacks have vastly different styles, Reid doesn't believe they will dramatically alter the Chiefs' game plan.

"We try to keep open communication with the quarterbacks as best we can," he said. "We've had Chad here a while now. We know the plays he likes and doesn't like. We also know the plays that Pat likes and doesn't like. We try to blend it and make sure that we have plays that work for both of them."

WHAT'S WORKING

The Chiefs proved they can take pressure off the quarterback with the ground game on Saturday night, running for nearly 5 yards per carry against Jacksonville. Isiah Pacheco had 95 yards rushing, much of it coming on Henne's long scoring drive.

WHAT'S NOT

The Chiefs' wide receivers struggled against the Jaguars, forcing the Chiefs to lean heavily on Travis Kelce, who had 14 catches for 98 yards and two scores. Kadarius Toney was their top wide receiver with five grabs for 36 yards, but nobody else in the group had more than two receptions or 29 yards.

STOCK UP

This is the time of the year Frank Clark makes good on his contract. The defensive end sometimes struggles during the regular season, but his sack against the Jaguars gave him 12 for his playoff career. That tied Hall of Famer Reggie White for fourth among all players since sacks became an official stat in 1982.

STOCK DOWN

Meanwhile, defensive tackle Chris Jones is still searching for his first career postseason sack. He had 15 and a half in the regular season, third most in the league, but had just one tackle and one quarterback hit against the Jaguars.

INJURIES

Mahomes will dominate the conversation all week. Otherwise, the Chiefs came out of the divisional round healthy.

KEY NUMBER

14 — That's the number of playoff touchdown catches for Kelce, which trails only Rob Gronkowski (15) and Jerry Rice (22) for the most in NFL history. Kelce has had at least one in each of his past four postseason games.

NEXT STEPS

The Chiefs have lost three straight to the Bengals, all since January 2022, including last year's AFC championship game. That was the only one of the three played at Arrowhead Stadium, though just like the rest, the Chiefs wound up losing by a field goal. In that game, Kansas City blew a 21-3 lead in the 27-24 overtime defeat.

Eagles hope home field helps them vs. 49ers in NFC title game

BY DAN GELSTON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

PHILADELPHIA — Nick Sirianni rocked a Meek Mill "Dream Chasers" chain in the midst of a raucous locker room celebration. Jalen Hurts sported a silver chain that read " Breed of One."

The Eagles have a knack for dangling their mottos on sparkling jewelry. There's one more piece of bling they're chasing: a Super Bowl ring.

The Eagles could have put NFC championship game tickets on sale at halftime of their blowout win over the Giants. The game was seemingly in hand on the first drive when Hurts put concerns about his banged-up right shoulder to rest and led a touchdown drive. The Linc was rocking. The Giants were reeling. Hurts and the Eagles looked every bit the Super Bowl contender they were when they raced to a 13-1 start. The outcome was a formality.

The 49ers are the next Super Bowl roadblock in the NFC Championship on Sunday (TV: Live on FOX at 3 p.m.) in Philadelphia.

San Francisco has rallied behind QB Brock Purdy and won 12 straight games, hardly playing like a team that would be intimidated by the hostile Philly crowd. Or one that wouldn't feel confident it could slow Hurts and a running game that finished with 268 yards against the Giants.

The NFC title game pits the No. 1 vs. No. 2 seeds in the conference. The 49ers are playing in their third NFC title game in the last four seasons. The Eagles are playing in their first one since 2018.

"Our focus is, hey, we're climbing this mountain," Sirianni said. "We're close to the top. Don't look at the top yet though."

The Eagles can see the peak — and it's in Glendale, Arizona.

Hurts proved he wouldn't be limited by whatever still aches in the right shoulder he sprained late in the season when he delivered another fantastic all-around effort. He lofted a deep pass on the second play of the game and completed his first seven pass attempts. The Eagles called running plays for their fleet-footed QB and he never seemed rattled by any hard licks, especially when the shoulder was drilled on one hard sack. The Eagles improved to a whopping 15-1 in Hurts' starts this season.

But they have been heavy favorites in most games this season, and are just 2 1/2-point favorites at home against the 49ers, according to FanDuel Sportsbook.

That should say something about the stiffest challenge the Eagles will face in weeks.

There's no question that the Eagles will go as far as their Pro Bowl QB will take them. Hurts completed just 12 of 23 passes for 190 yards when the Eagles lost to San Francisco in their last meeting on Sept. 19, 2021. It was only Sirianni's second game. Hurts was still adjusting to his role as a starter. Jimmy Garoppolo started at QB for San Francisco. It's hard to draw much out of that matchup — though Nick Bosa sacked Hurts twice.

All that matters now is what's ahead.

"You work really hard for these opportunities. They're not a dime a dozen," Hurts said.

WHAT'S WORKING

Everything. But let's hand off the game ball to the running backs. Philadelphia's offensive line opened big holes for Miles Sanders and Kenneth Gainwell as the Eagles finished with 268 yards on the ground. Gainwell finished with 112 yards on 12 carries, including a late 35-yard touchdown. Sanders had 17 rushes for 90 yards.

WHAT'S NOT

Hurts needs to be nimble against the 49ers. Bosa led the NFL with 18 and a half sacks, safety Tashaun Gipson had five interceptions and safety Talanoa Hufanga had four. Hurts threw two interceptions only once this season, in a win against the Bears. He hasn't really faced a defense as stout and hungry as the 49ers all season. The offensive line was strong against the Giants. They can't give Bosa any room to operate.

STOCK UP

Giants QB Daniel Jones tore up the Vikings a week earlier in a wild-card victory and could never get anything going against the Eagles. James Bradberry had an interception and Hasson Reddick had 1 and a half sacks on consecutive plays.

"We're the best in the world," Eagles cornerback Darius Slay said. "It's a whole group thing. We have a mindset to go out there and dominate."

STOCK DOWN

It should come as little surprise that everything clicked against the Giants.

INJURIES

C Jason Kelce said he suffered a quad injury against the Giants.

KEY NUMBER

7 — The Eagles are in their seventh NFC championship game since Jeffrey Lurie bought the team in 1994. All seven have come since 2001 and are the second-most in the NFL over that span behind only New England (13).

NEXT STEPS

The 49ers are the only NFC team that has never played a postseason game in Philadelphia. The teams have met only once in the postseason, San Francisco's 14-0 win over the Eagles in a 1996 wild-card game.

Ty Detmer went 14 of 21 passing for 148 yards before he was injured and replacement Mark Rypien went 5 of 12 for 77 yards and an interception. Philadelphia was shut out for the first time in a postseason game.

Holmes leads No. 6 Indiana women past No. 13 Michigan, 92-83

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Mackenzie Holmes had 25 points and 10 rebounds as No. 6 Indiana beat No. 13 Michigan 92-83 on Monday night.

Sara Scalia added 19 points, Chloe Moore-McNeil and Sydney Parrish each scored 12, and Yarden Garzon and Grace Berger each had 10 points for the Hoosiers (18-1, 7-1 Big Ten), who won their sixth straight.

"It's all the pieces that we have," Lewis said of the Hoosiers' best-ever start, "and our willingness to lock in on the defensive side of the ball. I think the buy-in has helped us have this much success so far."

Leigha Brown scored 31 points to lead Michigan (16-4, 6-3). Laila Phelia added 21 points and Emily Kiser had 11 for the Wolverines, whose three-game winning streak ended.

Indiana led by 17 points early in the second half. Michigan got within 77-71 in the fourth quarter before the Hoosiers pulled away.

"They were a potent offensive team, and we dug ourselves a hole," Michigan coach Kim Barnes Arico said. "I felt like we were always trying to battle back."

Indiana out-rebounded Michigan 41-24.

"There's not a lot to be disappointed about," Indiana coach Teri Moren said. "I thought our kids followed the game plan. We didn't panic. We knew there would be ebbs and flows, and they were going to make a run. But they stick together, and showed great maturity."

BIG PICTURE

Indiana: It was the second of three straight games against ranked opponents for the Hoosiers, who beat No. 21 Illinois 83-72 last Wednesday. Indiana next faces No. 2 Ohio State, which suffered its first loss of the season on Monday night, falling to No. 10 Iowa.

Michigan: The Wolverines face another ranked foe on Thursday in No. 10 Maryland as they seek to avoid a big drop in the rankings.

Bengals O-line subs ready ahead of title game

CINCINNATI — Coach Zac Taylor says he never doubted the toughness of the Bengals offensive line, no matter how many backups had to be pushed into service to replace the injured starters.

"We've had confidence throughout," Taylor insisted Monday, a day after Cincinnati dominated Buffalo to advance to the AFC championship game. "I think it's everybody else who wants to create a narrative of no confidence."

Nobody would have blamed Taylor if he had been a little uneasy about the situation. The Bengals were going into snowy Buffalo with three replacements on an offensive line that had been such an important part of Cincinnati's winning streak in November and December.

Jackson Carman, 23, started an NFL game at tackle for the first time, slotting in for Jonah Williams, who was out after dislocating a kneecap last week. Hakeem Adeniji started his third game this season in place of La'el Collins (knee) at right tackle, and Max Scharping started a second at right guard for Alex Cappa (ankle).

The result was a 27-10 win and one of the most complete games of the season for the Bengals offense.

The line benefited from Joe Burrow's ability to speed through his progressions and get the ball out fast.
